contingency learning and unlearning in the blink of an eye ... - contingency learning and unlearning in the blink of an eye: a resource dependent process by james r. schmidt a thesis presented to the university of waterloo in fulfilment of the thesis requirement for the degree of doctor of philosophy in psychology 'in the blink of an eye' - murdoch research repository - 'in the blink of an eye' an investigation into the concept of the 'decisive moment' (augenblick) as found in nineteenth and twentieth century western philosophy. koral ward. ba honours, philosophy, murdoch university, 2001 this thesis is presented for the degree of doctor of philosophy of murdoch university, 2005. faculty of informatics and information technologies - stuba - tear film is non adequately applied on the eye cornea. lower blink rate causes eye redness and dryness. this commonly-occurring problem of computer users is called dry eye. the goal of the bachelor thesis is to design an eye blink detection algorithm. in future it can be used in dry eye prevention application, which will detect user's blinks. cardiac modulation of startle eye blink: a pre-attentive ... - hemisphere. to explore whether cardiac modulation of startle eye blink is lateralized as well, in study 3, 37 healthy volunteers received 160 unilateral acoustic startle stimuli presented to both ears, one at a time (r +0, 100, 230, 530 ms). startle response magnitude was only diminished at r +230 ms and for left-ear presentation. neural responses to observed eye blinks in normal and slow ... - neural responses to observed eye blinks in normal and slow motion: an meg study siiri helokunnas master's thesis ... the eye blink appear even shorter than it is, because we actually fail to detect the event ... blinks, presented with normal speed and in slow motion. real time eye tracking and blink detection with usb cameras - real time eye tracking and blink detection with usb cameras michael chau and margrit betke computer science department boston university boston, ma 02215, usa {mikechau, betke@cs.bu} april 29, 2005 abstract a human-computerinterface(hci) system designed for use by people with severe disabilities is presented. people that real time eye blink detection using a configurable processor - created for this thesis is robust enough to be used as a real time blink detector that can be used in different domains of computer vision. in order to create the blink detector, a step by step approach is taken. first, the face is located and tracked. next, the eye region is to be found, automatic detection of eye blinking using the generalized ... - way is a compelling need. the aim of this research is to build an automated pipeline to detect eye blinking artifacts in eeg signals using the generalized ising model to act as a pattern recognition algorithm. a sample blink pattern is extracted from a single subject whose blink events are validated and marked by an eeg expert. center for machine perception eye-blink detection using ... - title of diploma thesis : eye -blink detection using facial landmarks . guidelines: 1. propose an eye-blink detection algorithm that uses facial landmarks as an input. 2. evaluate the proposed detector quantitatively based on the ground- truth dataset. study the detector sensitivity on the image/video quality (especially on face resolution,
